India Awakening Development Is On China's Output More Is Needed

LIKE China, India is awakening to the necessity of developing new sources of cotton supply. Both industrial and commercial conditions of India during the past quarter of a century have completely changed, and from being a purely agricultural country with undeveloped resources and out-of-date methods of working, it has been slowly and surely developing into an industrial nation, although about three-quarters of the population are still employed upon agricultural pursuits.

This change has come about from a variety of causes. During the war the rapid rise of Japan owing to its industrial renaissance convinced many Indians that it was possible to develop their country upon a like basis. A careful study of the industrial history of England, America and Germany strengthened this conviction, to which added strength was given by a report of the Indian Famine Commission which expressed the opinion that the poverty and the risks to which the people were exposed in bad seasons were mainly due to the fact that for the great majority agriculture was the sole occupation.

IN CHINA, TOO

Practically the same causes have served to bring about the industrial renaissance in China. The creation of new industries as a result of contact with the West and an appreciation of the vast market that lies in China undeveloped, have brought about a changed attitude among Chinese towards industry and industrial pursuits. It represents a very great change indeed which will find greater expression with a better order established in the country. It is recognised that a diversity of occupation must be introduced so that the surplus agricultural population can find employment in industrial and manufacturing enterprises.

It is characteristic of the cotton industry in China, as well as of the majority of the country's other industries, that the present output is far below what it ought to be and what it could easily become if those engaged in it realised the possibilities and conditions. China has developed a very large cotton spinning and weaving industry during the past few years, but the yield of cotton has not been commensurate with the growth of the industry. The mills every season are driven to despair in their efforts to secure cheap cotton, and have to draw very largely upon India and the United States for supplies, when in this country itself all the cotton that is required by the mills can be grown. The fault to a great extent lies with the Central Government, which has failed to establish a well-organised agricultural department.

CHANGE SHOULD COME

If the cotton mills in China could be assured of an abundant supply of indigenous cotton the cotton spinning industry would go forward with greater strides. Chinese cotton is cheaper than Indian and American. The possibilities for extensive cotton-growing are as great in China as they are in India, and the moment the farming fraternity in this country begin to realise this, a perceptible change in the situation should be noted.

As every one in the trade is aware, every year less cotton is available for export from America, the increased internal demand coupled with the ravages of the boll weevil pointing to the day when export of cotton from America will practically cease. Reports even from Egypt show that production there is becoming less and the ravages of mixed pests and the deterioration of the soil make a return to the maximum crops of the pre-war years unlikely. Hence the farmers in China should be urged to grow more cotton.

Again, the quality of Chinese cotton should be improved. It is a matter of vital importance to the cotton mill industry in China, which absorbs the greater portion of the production. Of late there has been noticeable a tendency towards finer spinning and hence a demand for better cotton. Taking these conditions into consideration, there seems little doubt but that China has before her a most promising opportunity for improving her position in respect of cotton production and thereby benefiting not only her own farmers but also the mills.

REGULATION NEEDED

The pernicious practice of adulterating cotton which is so prominent whenever the crop in China is a short one and the demand more than the supply should be stamped out by rigorous measures. In India much the same difficulty is being experienced by the mills, and recently the Indian Government introduced a bill which aims at regulating the transport of cotton and

INSPECTOR SHOT, KILLS BANDIT PAIR IN GUNFIGHT

Officer G. Hermitage Slays Fleeing Assailants

ROBBERY FOILED

Two Are Seized By Police; One Escapes

Two armed robbers were shot dead by Sub-Inspector G. Hermitage of the Municipal Police and he was slightly wounded during a fusillade of revolver shots that followed in the wake of an attempted armed robbery of a Chinese house near the corner of Mohawk Road and Avenue Edward VII about 8:30 o'clock last night.

Two other armed robbers were captured by Sgts. Tim Sullivan and E. A. Eva of the Traffic squad as they were attempting to escape. One other is believed to have escaped uninjured.

The five robbers went to the house which is situated at the end of an alleyway off Avenue Edward VII, just a few steps from Mohawk Road, with the intention of robbing the occupant of a large amount of opium he was thought to have hidden. It was also said that he and his large family were the possessors of a large quount of valuable jewelry.

As they entered the house an alarm was given and Sub Inspector Hermitage and Sgts. Sullivan and Eva, all of the Traffic squad, who were at Louza station, responded. They crept up the pitch-black alleyway to the house and when they ascertained that the robbers were still inside, broke in the front door.

As the door fell in the robbers, who at that moment were herding the occupants of the house upstairs, turned from their victims and opened fire on the police officers. Returning the fire with blazing guns the officers jumped into the room, Sullivan grabbing one man and Eva another while Hermitage took after the three attempting to flee. Hermitage was shot by the robber Sullivan was holding while Sullivan's gun was pushed into his stomach. Holding the man at bay with his gun Sgt. Sullivan was attempting to wrest his gun from him with his free hand when the robber suddenly made an effort to tear the gun away and fired. The bullet passed through Hermitage's coat, grazing his abdomen.

As Sullivan knocked his man to the ground Hermitage, despite his wound, pluckily sprang after the three robbers scuttling away in the dark alley. He caught a glimpse of one just as he was about to round a corner and dropped him dead in his tracks with one shot. Rushing swiftly to the end of the alley he spotted another who was also just about to reach a safe turn and also dropped him dead with one splendidly placed shot.

A score of shots were fired during the gun battle.

With the arrival of more police it was discovered that Hermitage was bleeding and he was taken to the General Hospital for treatment. His wound is not serious and he will probably be released from hospital today.

The other two were carried off to Louza station and will be brought up for trial in the Mixed Court. The penalty for armed robbery in China is death.

A large crowd of morbidly curious Chinese gathered about the spot, blocking Avenue Edward VII for a few minutes after the shooting affray.

(China Press Correspondence)

Wusih, Ku., Sept. 10.—Early this morning a boatload of passengers coming from a large country market town about fifteen miles from here was held up by seven highwaymen, who came aboard the boat with knives in their teeth.

The passengers and boat people were stripped of all of their baggage and even the clothing which they had on was taken from them.

Li Yuan-Hung Says Plan Is To Form Government Here By Peaceful Means

President Arrives From Tientsin To Confer With All Party Leaders; Declares He Still Holds Office

To organise a government in Shanghai to include leaders of all factions desiring to secure the unification of the nation by peaceful means is the sole object of President Li Yuan-hung's mission to Shanghai, according to his own statement given in an interview granted to a few local journalists at the temporary residence at 26 Route Doumer yesterday.

General Li, who arrived here yesterday afternoon from Tientsin by sea, appeared to be somewhat worn by the lengthy sea trip and spoke low and slowly with peculiar simplicity. His remarks to the members of the press who had waited on him for considerable time were brief.

"I believe I am one of the most peaceful citizens of the country and will continue to be so in my sojourn in Shanghai by trying to solve the political turmoil with peaceful means. I can not endorse the proposal to unify the country by militarism and consider all political law-breakers and tradition violators our public enemies, against whom I shall exert every particle of my energy to struggle.

"I shall welcome the co-operation of all present political leaders.

STILL RETAINS STATUS

"The bogus presidential election now being conducted in North China is bound to fail, since my tenure of office has not been legally relinquished and I still retain the status of the President of the Republic.

"Shanghai being the center of public opinion where the leaders of all walks of life are congregated, I consider it the most appropriate place to further my principles and trust that all those who are in favor of internal peace will co-operate with me and attain the high and just aspirations of the general populace and myself."

Details of President Li's arrival are now available. He came to Shanghai by a specially chartered steamer and arrived in Woosung waters shortly after noon yesterday. There he boarded a launch which took him to the French Mail Line jetty on the French Bund and was motored to his temporary residence. He was accompanied by a party of 22 ex-Ministers and secretaries and two Japanese doctors.

In the afternoon, he called on Mr. Tang Shao-yi, the noted Southern leader, at the latter's Range Road home. Later he was in conference with Kuomingtang and Tsenghsuehhui leaders including Mr. Tang, Mr. Chiang Ping-ling, the revolutionist; Chu Wei-sung, leading Chekiang Parliamentarian; Mr. Quo Tai-chi, his former secretary; Chiang Hsin-yen, president of the Peking Agricultural College; General Tsen Tsun-hsuan, the "Tiger Mandarin," and Tan Hsi, Parliamentarian.

FENG YU-HSIANG NAMED TO ATTEND CHURCH MEETING

Elected To M.E. Conference To Be Held In States

General Feng Yu-hsiang, the Christian general, has been elected to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church which will meet in Springfield, Massachusetts, next May.

General Feng, who is a member of the Asbury Methodist Church in Peking, was elected by the lay conference which is now meeting in connection with the North China Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church as one of their representatives at the conference which is to meet in Springfield. The General Conference of the Methodist Church meets every four years and is the law-making and executive body for the Methodist Episcopal Church throughout the world. Each conference sends an equal number of ministerial and lay delegates. The North China Conference is entitled to six delegates, three lay and three clerical.

The General Conference will meet at Springfield, Massachusetts, during the entire month of May, 1924. It is not definitely known whether or not General Feng can attend, but it is hoped that he will be able to arrange it. He is probably the leading member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the North China laymen hope to have him as one of their representatives.

RUHR CONFLICT PERILS EUROPE, SAYS SOLLMAN

German Tells Women That Understanding Must Be Reached

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Sept. 10.—The German Government's policy in the Ruhr was explained today to a deputation of the International Women's League of Peace and Liberty by the Minister, Herr Sollman, on behalf of the Chancellor.

Herr Sollman said that the pivot of the present situation was an understanding between France and Germany with the cognisance of the other members of the Entente. He stated that an understanding between France and Germany must be reached very shortly otherwise the whole of Central Europe would be endangered.

"We are ready to enter any agreement with the Entente, and especially with France, that the Ruhr and the Rhineland will shortly be again under full German control. This is attainable only by great exertions of German economic life, and we are ready to make these exertions, but we refuse to agree to conditions which mean the dismemberment of the Reich.

"Germany's desire for an understanding is greatly hampered by French speeches demanding unconditional capitulation in the Ruhr. It is the task of friends of peace to influence French policy to enter the path of understanding in the few weeks still remaining."

FIUME ADDS TO EUROPE'S WOES; DEBATE IS ON

Jugo-Slavia And Italy Are Unable To Agree On Proposals

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 10.—A fresh cloud in the European sky arising from the Fiume complications between Italy and Jugo-Slavia has not been dispelled by the latest news.

It is understood that the Belgrade Government has decided that it is quite unable to agree to Italy's proposal that Porto Barros and Delta should pass under the sovereignty of Jugo-Slavia, but remain indissolubly bound to the city of Fiume for 99 years, particularly as the Treaty of Rapallo recognised the Italian "character" of Fiume.

The Jugo-Slav Government is therefore requesting an extension of the Italian "ultimatum" beyond September 15 in order that negotiations may continue and, if necessary, that the whole question may be referred to Swiss arbitration.

RECORD FINE IS ORDERED PAID IN OPIUM SALE CASE

Chief Accused Assessed $1,800; Two Others $200 Each

A record fine for an opium case was imposed by Assessor Allman and Magistrate Kwan in the Mixed Court yesterday when one Yau Ah-doo was ordered to pay $1,800 for keeping the drug for sale at 74 Canton Road, while two other Chinese convicted of aiding and abetting in the sale were fined $200 each. The charge against a fourth man was dismissed.

In consequence of a raid on the establishment the police seized in the neighborhood of 200 pounds of opium, valued at about $10,000.

In closing the case for the prosecution yesterday Mr. Eardley Maitland, for the police, stated that no less than 83 cases of this kind had been brought before the court by the police of the Traffic Branch and that there seemed to be no decrease in the number of violations. He asked that terms of imprisonment be given in this case to serve as an example to opium sellers.

All of the accused denied the charges, the principal, represented by Mr. F. W. Hadley, declaring that the drug was really the property of his cousin who had now gone away and could not be located. The other accused were represented by Mr. R. Macdonald.

NEW OUTBREAK AMONG MOROS ANTICIPATED

Governor-General Wood May Make Investigation Personally

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Sept. 11.—Further outbreaks amongst the Moros in the Lake Lanao region are anticipated. The constabulary are despatching guns there. The Moros number 300. Goveror-General Wood regards them as religious fanatics, but is worried and may leave for the spot shortly to investigate.

It is reported that they are taking an oath on the Koran to run amok, to refuse to pay taxes or to send their children to school, and to demand the appointment of an American instead of a Filipino Governor.

Moros have hauled down the Filipino flag at Camp Keithly and warned the garrison not to raise it again.

Fighting may break out any day.

Here Is England's New Mystery Submarine

ABOVE is shown the turret of the K-26, the newest of England's submarines, the "mystery ship" that has aroused so much interest in naval circles. The submarine mounts a long-range nine-inch gun, seen forward, and during her trial spins attained great speed, both on the surface and submerged.

U.S. Commercial Attache, Newly Arrived In Japan, Faces Wrath Of Temblor

Mr. E. A. Babbitt Tells Of Battling Way From Tokio To Yokohama To Reach Wife And Daughters---Fate Of One Girl Is Unknown

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Nagasaki, Sept. 10.—Mr. E. A. Babbitt, the Assistant American Commercial Attache, arrived in Tokio on the morning of the earthquake, leaving his wife and two daughters in the Grand Hotel at Yokohama. He motored to Yokohama after the earthquake on foot, arriving at two o'clock in the morning. He took refuge at the Bluff until daylight, when he was picked up by a rescue squad.

Mr. Babbitt found his wife and one daughter on board the Empress of Australia. His other daughter was lost. His wife was ill and had to be carried on board. The daughters were in the corridor of the hotel playing when the first shock came. One ran into the room to help her mother out. The fate of the other is not known.

The manager of the German Bank was caught in the ruins. His rescuers had to amputate his leg to get him free. He subsequently died in Yokohama Park.

Mr. Boulter, the British Vice-Consul at Yokohama, was slightly injured while doing rescue work.

Stayed In Water Five Hours

Mr. Charles Palmer, of Kobe, had a strange adventure but not only one of its kind by any means. Finding himself hedged in by blazing timbers and tottering walls, his only exit was into the sea, where the bund had been. He took to the water, and was in it for five hours. All the harbor was covered with wreckage, and a great deal of black oil, and a number of young men got boats and rowed about helping out of the water those who were in, and taking others from positions of peril to places of safety.

Though such awful things had happened, and the terrifying quakes were still going on, there was little hysterical rushing about. "Fortunately we were all dazed," said one of the refugees.

"And what about food?——"Well fortunately I had a good breakfast," said one, "but the next thing I had was a slice of bread and butter and a cup of tea late in the evening on board the Empress; and in the afternoon, down at Hommoku, I shared a bottle of beer. It cost a yen, but I would have given anything for it. I was full of dust."

The Empress of Australia was the great ark of refuge. The crowd that was on the wharf to see their friends off practically all got on board. Unfortunately, owing to getting her propellers damaged, the Empress has not been able to leave with her refugees. She has only been able to give them food and crowded shelter—and the security of feeling that they were on an element

Geneva, Sept. 10.—The Assembly of the League of Nations on the motion of Mr. Pusta (Esthonia) adjourned for a day as a sign of mourning for the Japanese calamity.

Mr. Adachi returned thanks in an eloquent speech and said that it was a consolation that the great Assembly in Japan's hour of trial had expressed cordial sympathy which would long be engraved in the mind of the Japanese people.

Peking Election Is Set For Today; Quorum Doubtful

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

The necessary quorum was formed yesterday for a preliminary election but it is very doubtful whether a quorum will be available tomorrow, three-fourths of the members being required.

£2,250,000 Firm Faces Liquidation

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 10.—The latest City sensation is the convocation of a meeting of the shareholders of the Commercial Corporation of London, with an issued capital of £2,250,000, to consider voluntary liquidation owing to the fact that one of the shareholders is petitioning for compulsory winding-up.

The assets consist principally of holdings in industrial companies seriously affected by the trade slump, and their depreciation in value in the fact that the Corporation's £1 shares are quoted at only a few pence, though the directors consider that if the assets are nursed by forming a holding company, they will eventually appreciate.

EPIDEMICS OF FEVER BREAK OUT IN JAPAN; FUNDS ASKED

U.S. Ambassador Wood Asks $1,000,000 Immediately

SUPPLIES NEEDED

Food And Medicines Should Be Sent At Once

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Sept. 10.—Mr. Cyrus E. Woods, the United States Ambassador in Tokio, has cabled to the State Department that fever epidemics have broken out and that it is imperative that $1,000,000 of American Red Cross funds should be placed immediately at the disposal of the Japanese Relief Committee for the purpose of purchasing medical supplies and food as quickly as possible.

(Exclusive China Press)

Tokio, Sept. 11.—Among the innumerable ghastly aftermaths of the earthquake and tidal wave catastrophe is the fact that dozens of refugees, both Japanese and foreigners, are slowly going insane as a result of their terrible experiences.

Many of them agonisedly and helplessly watched on while their wives and children were crushed or burned to death before their eyes, unable to offer any assistance. Now they roam amidst the ruins of Yokohama, seeking the bodies of their loved ones nightly, but all without success. Several are already driveling idiots. All are doomed for the madhouse.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Sept. 10.—Larger contributions to the relief funds that have been received up to September 10 by the Relief Bureau amounted to over Y.26,000,000. Fifty banks have reopened their business up to the present. Representatives of all life insurance companies have today decided to pay the total amount insured.

(Eastern News Agency)

Shanghai, Sept 11.—An "Osaka Mainichi" Special despatch to the Eastern News Agency reports:—

Mr. Sze Li-pen, acting Chinese minister to Japan, and a party of representatives of the Waichiaopu arrived in Kobe today and immediately proceeded to Tokio by sea.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 11.—The Lord Mayor's Japanese Earthquake Fund now stands at £80,000. The King has contributed £500.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Sept. 11.—Mr. Hanihara, the Japanese Ambassador, today handed Mr. Hughes, the Secretary of State, a message from the Japanese Premier expressing the deep gratitude of the Emperor and people for the American sympathy and aid.

"This precious gift of American sympathy cannot fail to draw still closer the bonds of friendship and trust between the two countries." The spontaneous measures of the President, the Government and the people of the United States have created a profound impression "in the grateful hearts of suffering Japan."

The total amount of American subscriptions exceeds $4,000,000 towards the $5,000,000 for which President Coolidge asked.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, Sept. 11.—The Imperial Hotel at Tokio, almost the only building left in the city for the accommodation of foreigners, has been taken over by the military. It has been full of refugees since the earthquake. A notice was served upon the foreigners and Japanese using the hotel that they must evacuate it immediately, and all got out on Sunday.

The American Ambassador and his family and the Embassy staff are still using a portion of the hotel and the British Embassy has an office in the building, otherwise it is being used entirely by the military. The foreigners in the hotel and a large number of other foreigners, who had been living in other parts

Tokio, were taken from the city by the launches of the American destroyer Whipple, which entered the inner part of Tokio Bay on Saturday, being the first foreign warship to pass the old mud forts off Shinagawa since they were hastily erected to protect the city from the expected visit of Commodore Perry sixty years ago.

The Whipple's launches went by canal to close to Shinbashi station where the foreigners embarked. The Whipple brought them to Yokohama where they embarked on board the Empress of Australia for Kobe. There are very few foreigners now in Tokio, which is still difficult to reach. Those attempting the journey must carry their own bread and water and practically no baggage for no conveyances are available.

(Exclusive China Press)

Washington, Sept. 10.—The navy department today received its first word from Yokohama direct when Admiral A. E. Anderson, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, reported that 200 foreigners had been killed at Yokohama. He said that there were 130 foreigners, mostly American and British, who had arrived at Yokohama as refugees from Hakone. The flagship Huron reached Yokohama Thursday.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Sept. 10.—In connection with the recent catastrophe in Kwanto district, it is generally observed that while the effect that has been caused by the disaster upon financial circles in Japan is very serious, it is not of such a nature that is to be worried over from the view-point of economic condition of Japan as a whole. The public takes the view that with the restoration of peace and order in the devastated area, the restoration of the economic state of affairs will be effected earlier than is expected. To this end, the Government and the people of Japan are acting in co-operation with all their might. The Bank of Japan has already commenced general payment, and the Yokohama Specie Bank, the Mitsubishi Bank, the Kogyo Bank, the Bank of Taiwan and the Hypothec Bank have opened their business today. It is expected that the other banks will follow suit before long.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokyo, Sept. 10.—Notwithstanding desparate efforts on the part of the authorities concerned there are still innumerable dead bodies left uncared for in the districts of Honjo and Fukagawa. Among the dead there are not a few distinguished persons. The sufferers who have assembled in the parks or in the streets of the hilly districts of the capital, are gradually going into the country, and inasmuch as those who are arriving in Tokio from local districts are fewer, the congestion of people has come to be much alleviated. Owing to the heavy rain that has visited Tokio since the night before last, the pitiful sight of the sufferers, who are camping out, is something extraordinary.

(Eastern Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Sept. 11.—One hundred and fifty refugees, mostly women and children, arrived from Japan today by the Empress of Canada.

Mr. Ho Kwong, comprador of Messrs. E. D. Sassoon and Co., Ltd., representing the Relief Committee, a delegation from the Chinese organisations, and District Watchmen under European inspectors, acting on the direction of the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, met the arrivals, who were distributed among various boarding-houses.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Sept. 10.—Of 500 Chinese students here, it has been found up to the present that four were killed, 13 wounded and two missing. The wounded students are now being treated in the Tokio Medical College and the rest are being quartered in various places. It is understood, however, that these Chinese students will all be taken into the dormitory of the First High School. Of all the Chinese merchants, 150 persons are now being quartered in the site of the burnt Chinese Legation. Of the 400 Chinese students, who have been staying in the district of Beahu for summer vacation, two were killed and twenty wounded. The Chinese Legation has established its temporary offices at the residence of Mr. Shirai in 6 Bancho, Kojimachi-Ku, Tokio.

(Eastern News Agency)

The Japanese Consulate-General here announces that Mr. Yada, the Consul-General for Japan has received the following official report from Count Yamamoto, the Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs:

Following the formation of the present Cabinet, the Throne has appointed Dr. Hiramuma as Minister of Justice, Dr. Okano as Minister of Education, Mr. Yokota as President of the Supreme Court and Mr. K. Uchida as Governor-General Taiwan (Formosa).

With regard to the catastrophe, in Tokio, the dead that were found out up to September 7 numbered 47,000. Among the leading Government buildings completely burnt down are the Departments of Finance, Education, Home Affairs, Communications, Agriculture and Commerce, and Railways as well as the Metropolitan Police Board.

(Nihon Dempo)

Yokohama, Sept. 10.—The Trade Guild of Yokohama, after a series of conferences, passed the following resolution today.

For the development of national industry and foreign trade as well as for the reconstruction of the city of Yokohama, we deem it of a vital necessity at this juncture to organise a Silk Trade Reconstitution Association in Yokohama. As a preliminary step for the attainment of the end, our supreme efforts should be concentrated on the revival of the export of raw silk from the port.

An "Asahi" despatch to the Eastern News Agency reports: At the Tokio Chamber of Commerce, a conference was held today with Viscount Shibusawa, Mr. Raizo Kanda, Mr. Seinosuke Go and many other prominent businessmen as well as Mr. Inouye, Minister of Finance and Mr. Ichiki, President of the Bank of Japan present. At the conference, it was resolved that greatest possible efforts should be made, as may come, for the salvation and restoration of Tokio.

An "Asahi" despatch to the Eastern News Agency states: The question as to how the restoration of Tokio will be effected rests with the urban scheme of the Government as well as with the idea of individuals. In view of the fact, however, that Viscount Goto, Minister of Home Affairs, was only up to recently Mayor of Tokio City and that Mr. Nagata, new Mayor, was then Deputy Mayor under Viscount Goto, both of whom having hitherto had an earnest desire for bringing into existence a Greater Tokio, so far as the authorities concerned are concerned, it may be said that the recent catastrophe has proved to the destruction of the old capital previous to the construction of the so-called Greater Tokio. Under these circumstances, the outcome of the study of the plan for the restoration of Tokio City, which the Government is making at present, is being looked to with keen interest. So long as individuals are concerned, the burning question is how to have a roof over them. As for the restoration of the Ginza Dori, the main street of Tokio City, an active movement is afoot. For instance, Mr. Misu, Manager of the Shiseido, arrived in Osaka with the object of consulting with architects. The general plan in the mind of Mr. Misu is that department stores on the line of Mitsukoshi and Shirokiya Department Stores are to be constructed.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Sept. 10.—Public opinion in Japan is now concentrated in the restoration of Tokio City. In this connection, it is reported that the Government will probably establish a department for the revival of the capital at the expense of Y.5,000,000,000 to Y.8,000,000,000 and will appoint a Minister of the Revival of the Capital.

Several Reported Dead In Yokohama Discovered To Be Alive And Unhurt

Miss Muriel Fardel, Mr. Roger L. Moore, Mr. And Mrs. Nelson Bell, Mr. And Mrs. Buchanan And Miss Elder Safe

Better news concerning the safety and reported deaths of foreigners in the earthquake area was received in Shanghai yesterday, when it became possible to more accurately check up on the missing and reported dead with better and more systematic conditions prevailing in Kobe and in the stricken area. Several reported to have been killed are now reported safe, or at the most are and hope still clings that some of those reported dead may be only missing and will still be accounted for safe.

Mr. E. Verneaux, an attorney at 17, Yuen Ming Yuen Road, received a cable from Kobe yesterday, however, that brought grief to him. It told him that his fiancee, Miss Sarah D. Morgenstern, of Yokohama, had died in the General hospital at Kobe as a result of the severe injuries sustained when she was rescuing children from neighboring houses that had collapsed during the terrific shocks.

According to a cable received by the Associated Mission Treasurers Miss Muriel Fardel, daughter of Mr. H. F. Fardel, is not dead as previously reported, but has been found safe and is now en route to Shanghai. Mr. Fardel, a teacher in the Public School for Boys here, was killed in Yokohama, and another daughter, Mrs. R. B. Rowbottom, was also killed. Miss Vera Kerr, another daughter, is reported to be coming to Shanghai with Miss Fardel.

MOORE ALIVE

Mr. Sidney Moss, the attorney, also received a cablegram yesterday from Mr. M. E. Merriman of the Yokohama offices of the American Express Company stating that Mr. Roger L. (Lonny) Moore, assistant manager of the Grand Hotel in Yokohama and formerly manager of the Astor House Hotel here, was not killed, but safe and uninjured. It is expected that he will also come to Shanghai in the near future. Mr. Moore is believed to have been at Hakone at the time of the disaster.

Mr. Harold C. Pond of the American Bird Company, also informs The China Press that Miss Katherine Elder, who was reported lost in the disaster at Yokohama, together with her sister, Mrs. D. K. Dimelow and two children, have arrived in Shanghai safely after harrowing experiences and a miraculous escape and are now the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pond at 403 Avenue Joffre. Mr. Dimelow was not in the earthquake area at the time and is also safe.

Mr. N. C. Wolf has received a cablegram from Kobe reporting that Mr. P. F. M. Kievenaar, a citizen of The Netherlands, and the manager of the United States Rubber Company offices in Yokohama and family are safe in Kobe.

EISLER SAFE

Yesterday's cables also put aside all doubt that Captain W. J. Eisler, Shanghai representative of the United States Shipping Board, was killed in the 'quake. Captain Eisler cabled the Robert Dollar Company that, "all Shanghai and outport visitors in Hakone, Miyanoshita, and Amcham safe".

Mrs. M. Zahn, the wife of the manager of Nabholz and Co., Yokohama, was also reported killed. Mrs. E. Zahn was among the refugees arriving in Kobe on the Empress of Canada and it is believed to be the same woman. Mr. H. C. Burnell, whose name appeared on the death list, has also arrived safely at Kobe at last.

The Associated Mission Treasurer's have also informed The China Press that they are without confirmation of the reported death of Mr. Walter Buchanan and his wife and child. They have also received information that Mr. Nelson Bell, wife and two daughters have arrived in Shanghai; that Mr. L. H. Hamilton is safe and reported to have been married to Miss McAlpine at Karauizawa after the disaster, and that Mr. Francis Price, who was in Tokio at the time of the earthquake, went to Kobe and then returned to Tokio to do relief work. Mrs. Price arrived here by the Empress of Canada and is now in Nanking visiting with the Rev. and Mrs. F. F. Price.

WIRE RECEIVED TELLS OF ATTACK ON IYANG MARU

Further details of the attack made by Chinese troops on the Japanese steamer Iyang Maru at Foochow, on the Upper Yangtsze, September 7, when the captain and other officers and passengers were killed, are contained in a message received by a local firm from Ichang.

The telegram states that the Iyang Maru was ordered to stop at Foochow, but that Captain Hosokawa attempted to run past. The soldiers opened fire and the passengers rushed to the bridge. The captain, a Japanese passenger, several of the crew and some Chinese were killed. The soldiers took the Chief Officer, Mr. Takahashi, ashore and proceeded to loot the steamer.

The Yungyang Maru was there at the time, but slipped anchor and returned to Ichang. It was reported at Ichang that the Iyang Maru had loaded ammunition at Wanhsien.

The telegram stated that Chungking was again being attacked.

DESOLATION IN JAPAN IS WORSE THAN WAR ZONE

Tremendous Havoc Caused By Quake, Chinese Charge Says

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Sept. 10.—In an interview with a representative of the Eastern News Agency, Mr. Chang, the Chinese Charge d'Affairs, made the following statement.

"I have personally inspected the battle-fields of the European War but the desolation of Tokio and surrounding districts that has been caused by the recent earthquake and fire is much more serious. Despite this fact, that the Government and the people of Japan, while assuming a calm attitude, are maintaining peace and order and are acting in unison for relief measures is indeed a pleasant surprise. It is my sincere and earnest desire that the people of Japan will at this juncture display their elastic spirit more than ever and will succeed in the construction of new Tokio as soon as possible. I have wired four times to the Peking Government, urging, in the first telegram, that the Corn Law be abolished, reporting, in the second telegram, about the destruction by fire of the Chinese Legation, asking, in the third telegram, that the despatch to Tokio of Chinese students be suspended for the present and requesting, in the fourth telegram, that relief-funds be raised. I have inspected the martial law headquarters and found it a matter for admiration that everything there is in perfect order and the troops are displaying their power to a full extent."

An Asahi despatch to the Eastern News Agency reports: The foreign sufferers of Yokohama, who arrived in Kobe up to September 10, numbered 5,013, of whom, excepting those who have returned home, 4,268 persons, including 445 British subjects, 185 Americans, 153 Germans, 48 Frenchmen, 160 Russians and 2,937 Chinese are now remaining in Kobe. For the relief of these sufferers, a foreign sufferers relief commission has been organised in Kobe with Mr. Holster, British Consul at Kobe, as its chairman, and with its offices in the Oriental Hotel. Of the foreign sufferers, the 160 Russians are being quartered in the foreign theater and will, it has been decided, be employed as cargo-coolies as from today. They are each given an average of 2.50 Yen per day in addition to foreign luncheon.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 11.—The Peking British Chamber of Commerce has decided to raise a relief fund for the British sufferers in the Japan earthquake, any surplus to go to the Japanese sufferers.

NAVY DISASTER AFTERMATH OF QUAKE, BELIEF

Unusual Currents Caused Wreck Of Destroyers, Officials Say

(BY UNITED PRESS)

San Francisco, Sept. 11.—Navy headquarters here announced that the wreck of the seven destroyers in Santa Barbara channel was due to unusual currents.

Twenty-two sailors are dead and 15 injured as a result of the wreck and the losses are estimated at $12,500,000.

The destroyers were rushing to the aid of the wrecked steamer Cuba and are reported to have lost their bearings owing to conflicting wireless directions from sea and land.

(Reuter's Service)

Santa Barbara, Sept. 10.—One of the seven destroyers in the disaster, the U. S. S. Delphy, broke up last night, carrying down a seaman who was blinded by oil. Both his legs were broken and he had been lashed to a mast in the hope that he might be rescued later.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Sept. 10.—High Naval authorities advance the theory that the disasters to the destroyer flotilla at Santa Barbara was due to tidal waves and other seismic disturbances following the Japanese earthquake.

less treacherous and unstable than the earth.

When the refugees left—a little more than twenty-four hours after the disaster—though even to those so far from the scene as Kobe it seems incredible that it was so very recent—not even a start had been made towards any sort of reckoning up of the calamity. Everything was down—that was the great and overwhelming fact. There were crowds of people already getting ragged, and with neither food nor shelter. The discovery and listing of those beneath the ruins had not begun and might never be completed.

Only One Dead At Miyanoshita

Although only a tiny place, practically made by the one famous hotel, the Fujiya, the fate of Miyanoshita had given much anxiety, for an almost complete silence had brooded over it. An alleged cook had been quoted by one paper as authority for saying that Miyanoshita had been utterly destroyed. There was a half-demented Japanese who came down to Numazu, and later, it is understood, to Kobe, who declared that except for half a dozen people too dazed to speak or move, there was no living soul in Miyanoshita. The continued silence seemed only to corroborate this. On September 4, however, at Kobe quite a big party turned up, with the news that of all that had been in Miyanoshita only one was missing—a Mr. Herr, who, at the time of the earthquake, had been walking with another man, when a telegraph pole fell between them, grazing the other man, but knocking Herr clean over the precipice.

At the time of the earthquake people were scattered about in the usual fashion, some in the billiard room, some swimming in the big tank above the hotel at the back. Suddenly, as everywhere else, the shock came with continuous shaking that flung everything about all over the rooms. During the first partial intermission most of the people who had been standing under door-frames made a rush for the open. Climbing up to the swimming pool, they saw the waters leaping about as though in a tempest. All the people in the pool managed to get out though one lady ran a narrow risk of being crushed under the collapsing steps, when the bank breached, utterly ruining the pool. As the people left the house a lady came rushing up to say that her sister was buried in one of the upper rooms, on the hill at the back. It appeared that she had tried to get out at the door, when the wardrobe fell across it. She then tried the window, when the ceiling fell on her. Two or three of the men, with some difficulty, extricated her, and she was not much the worse, except for scratches and bruises on one of her legs, which another lady bound up.

SPEND NIGHT OUTSIDE

One of the guests of the Hotel, Captain D. H. James, of Kobe, about ten minutes after the first shock, re-entered the hotel, which was still standing, though much away, visited every room and called to see if anybody was within. He then had a roll call, the only man missing of all on the hotel books being the above mentioned Mr. Herr. The day dragged on anxiously. Adventurous spirits went into the hotel from time to time, getting blankets and other things for camping out, but even in the open they were far from safe. Miyanoshita, half way up a winding ravine that runs through a tangle of vast and ancient volcanoes, is perched in a little eyrie scooped out in the precipitous side of the ravine, and there was a constant fear that the whole place might shake down on the bottom. This, indeed, did happen at each end of the village, the houses at the upper end below the big curio shops going over the side, and at the lower end a similar collapse taking place. Lower down, apparently, there was a general collapse into the ravine, and it was found that there was no possibility of getting to Odawara, except by climbing right over the mountain, but all idea of trying to make Odawara was given up when, as evening drew on, the glow from Odawara burning could be seen in the sky.

The night was passed in the open. It could not be called sleeping, for it is doubtful whether anybody of the whole company got a wink. The possibilities of sleeping were not increased by hearing, and occasionally seeing, landslides on the opposite mountains slipping into the ravine. There was no cessation of earth-movement, though sometimes it diminished to a trembling that made people wonder if it was they who were trembling or the earth, but tests proved that it was the earth. As the hotel could still be entered at some risk, and has escaped fire, there was no lack of food, but the second night in the open was disturbed by shocks so violent that some of those camping out declared they would rather do anything than stand another night of it. Captain James, as the most experienced campaigner there, called for volunteers. Those responding were Mr. and Mrs. Brinest James, Mr. and Mrs. Amberg, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Spence and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Reigle, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Harold Reynell, two children and nurse, Mrs. C. Palmer, Miss N. Hankey, Miss Warren and Miss Creighton, Mrs. Wittaker, and Mr. J. Ellis and daughter. There were between thirty and forty others, but they elected to say.

The start was made at seven o'clock. The party travelled light, and set out up the mountain road to Hakone, which they reached at 12 o'clock. After about a quarter of an hour's rest there, and a little to eat, they pushed on again, a longer but less arduous trek to Mishima.—normally less arduous, that is, but on this occasion trying enough, as it rained the whole way in torrents. Ladies and children performed feats of walking, and that after two nights without sleep, that they would have declared impossible in ordinary times. Mishima was reached at 5.30, and motor-cars were obtained here for the trip to Numazu. People here said there was going to be another shock at midnight—perhaps judging from the experience of the previous night. Sure enough when the party got to Numazu, they were just in time to see a large number of people rushing out of the station in a fresh panic.

West Prospect Saves Fifteen

On Monday night, about 12.30, the first of the refugees from Yokohama to reach Kobe stepped ashore from the West Prospect. This ship was on her way across the Pacific from Manila and only put in at Yokohama because she was short of water. As she arrived on Saturday night she saw first the glow of Tokio burning. She passed the smaller but very fierce blaze of Yokosuka, and as she came into Yokohama Bay, saw all the city ablaze from the remotest end of the Bluff to the limits of the Japanese town. Water, of course, was the last thing that the West Prospect would find at Yokohama, so, having done what she could in the way of rescue work, and having little accommodation, she took in her small complement of passengers and came back to Kobe.

Those she brought included Mrs. Maurice Russell, Misses Marie and Katie Russell, Mr. and Mrs. P. Nipkow and boy, Mr. Ch. Rudolph, Mr. H. Vaterlaus, Mr. Merriman, Mr. Chas. Palmer, Mr. Lynch, Mr. Anderson, Mr. Julian, Mr. Thompson (Arthur and Bond).

Of these, not one had more than the tiniest of bundles, and those only consisted of things they had been wearing at the time of the earthquake but had taken off since.

All had the same tale to tell. All was perfectly quiet, bright, and peaceful, and then suddenly there was an overwhelming crash. It was not the ordinary earthquake, alarming indoors but imperceptible to a man walking in the open. The earth heaved like the sea. "I shall hear the screams all my life, said one of the new arrivals.

"Is So-and-so's standing?" was the first question asked by each of the half-dozen people who had gone off in the launch to meet the West Prospect, which was two or three hours later than expected. "There is nothing!" was the invariable reply. A corner of the Standard Oil building, it appeared, was all that stood above ground level in all Yamashita-cho. "But wasn't the Bluff saved?" "Not a house; it is all gone!"

When the West Prospect left on Sunday, over twenty-four hours after the first great quake, fires were still burning here and in the Japanese town the fire was still burning fiercely—so some houses might still be standing there, they said, but only to burn down.

At Saturday noon there is generally a big gathering in the United Club, but on the earthquake day there was a big crowd of members down to see friends off by the Empress of Australia—a fact which saved many lives. The Club in five seconds was only a ruin standing perhaps the height of a man. Mr. Anderson, of the U.S. Shipping Board, had a miraculous escape. He was buried so that they had to put a bamboo down for him to breathe through, and was only extricated in the nick of time. He was the only one of the refugees who was really damaged. He was quite unrecognisable with facial bruises, and Dr. Andrew Bird, who went on board to see to him, bound him with strips of plaster all down one side. But he managed to walk off the ship on his own feet. Battered as he was he had been hunting for his son, and had had to give up the search. He only knew the boy was alive after they cleared from Yokohama and got a wireless from the President Jefferson that he was on board that vessel and all safe.

"And after the earthquake the fire." In every house that had crashed, and in those that by some miracle still balanced their walls precariously perpendicular, while people were extricating themselves, while they peered through the dust and tried to remove the debris to look for their friends, while they stood stupefied, while they lay pinned underneath, dead or awaiting death, fire began in every wreck, creeping through the wreckage, and soon roaring upwards in a common conflagration. Search and even rescue in many places had to be abandoned. Many sought refuge in the little park, where they stood with the roaring furnace round them, and retreated to the side of the park, hither and thither, as the constantly changing typhoon wind drove them.

PRES. LINCOLN TO CARRY NEXT MAIL TO UNITED STATES

Following the sailing of the President Grant yesterday morning, the next mail for the States will be dispatched on the President Lincoln next Sunday, and mail from the States will arrive on the Presidents Wilson and McKinley this week-end.

The Lincoln which was due here from San Francisco, Honolulu and Japan ports today, has been delayed on account of relief work in Japan. The liner is now expected to leave Yokohama at noon today, and is due in Shanghai via Kobe next Sunday or Monday, and sailing for Hongkong and Manila two days later. The McKinley should arrive at Yokohama from Seattle yesterday, and is expected to make port next Sunday.

A mail for India will go on the P. and O. steamer Sicilia tomorrow. The liner will sail for Bombay via Hongkong, Singapore and Colombo, and the tender with outgoing passengers for the steamer is to leave the Customs jetty at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Bringing mail from Europe, the Karmala of P. and O. arrived in Shanghai from London yesterday morning, and docked at the Shanghai and Hongkew Wharf. The Kalyan, also of P. and O., left London on September 6 and is expected to arrive in Shanghai via ports about October 16, and the next mail from Europe is due to arrive in Shanghai next Saturday on the M. M. steamer Cordillere. The vessel comes from Marseilles.

Two Blue Funnel liners are arriving in Shanghai from Liverpool and Glasgow shortly. They are the Telamon which left Singapore last Friday, and is due here next Saturday, and the Elpenor, from that port on Saturday, and arriving next Monday.

Li Yuan-Hung Plans To Form Government Here

Agriculture and Commerce, whom President Li appointed Acting Premier on the day when he was ousted from his Peking Palace. It is shortly after 3 o'clock, a group of newspapermen were allowed to see the Chief Executive and be informed of his plans. The residence where he is staying belongs to General Li Yung-ting, ex-Tuchun of Kwangsi.

The statement made by Li Yuan-hung is especially significant in view of the fact that the Peking Parliament is scheduled to form an electoral college tomorrow for the election of Tsao Kun as President as the result of the gathering of a full quorum at a session of the Parliament Monday.

If the attempt of the Peking solons is successful a peculiar situation will arise in the political history of China since both Li and Tsao will claim the presidential chair with apparently sound legal arguments from both.

The Presidential Seals, insignia of the nation's highest executive, are now with Parliament after having been forcibly taken away from Madame Li, the president's wife, upon his departure from Peking for Tientsin on June 13. If Tsao Kun is elected, he will have no trouble in obtaining the seals, but President Li holds that they were taken away from his possession by force by Wang Cheng-ping, Civil Governor of Chihli, and could not be used for executive purposes unless they were legally surrendered by him to a legally elected successor to the Presidential chair.

It is understood that President Li will issue two manifestos, one addressed to the Chinese and the other to the foreign powers, shortly. His official headquarters will be located in Chinese territory, it is intimated.

While the Peking Parliament claims it had a quorum at a preliminary meeting for the formation of an Electoral College on Monday, 486 Parliamentarians issued a manifesto from Shanghai yesterday, repudiating the legality of any Presidential Election to be conducted by the Peking Assembly. The exact number of solons now in Shanghai is slightly over 200, but the manifesto contained signatures of 486 genuine members of Parliament.

BELGIAN FLYING AROUND WORLD ARRIVES HERE

Will Fly Through China To Siberia From Shanghai

Mon. Joseph Lefert, the famous Belgian aviator who is flying around the world to win a bet of 500,000 francs, arrived in Shanghai yesterday to make arrangements for his flight through China. Mon. Lefert said last night that his machine with 400-horsepower Liberty motor is now at Manila as his plans of flying from Manila to Shanghai were upset because of the refusal of the Japanese Government to allow him to land in Formosa.

"My machine is old and I don't want to take the chance of being forced to fly from the Philippines to China in one flight," Mon. Lefert said. "It is too long. I planned to break the trip in two by landing in Formosa but the Japanese refused me permission to land there."

Mon. Lefert will bring his machine from Manila to Shanghai by boat as soon as he obtains permission of the Shanghai Municipal Council to land and to start his China flight from here. He will fly from Shanghai to Tientsin, Tientsin to Vladivostok, and then through Siberia, crossing over to the American continent by a flight over Bering Sea.

The aviator purchased his powerful Liberty in Manila from a Filipino sportsman who purchased the machine during the after-the-war aviation enthusiasm.

Dempsey Is Picked To Beat Firpo In Bout At New York Friday

Champion Rules Favorite Over Argentine Giant; Edgren Thinks "Wild Bull" Has Better Than Fair Chance

Interest of boxing fans in Shanghai, as in every other place in the world, is now centered on the Dempsey-Firpo engagement next Friday night, at New York. It is safe to say that nearly everybody in New York is clamoring for a ticket to the Polo grounds, and equally safe to say that there will be thousands of disappointed ones. The big National League baseball park will hold a flock of fans but it won't begin to hold all that will want to look upon this battle of giants.

Dempsey, of course, will enter the ring a hot favorite over the Argentine slugger, at odds that will run as high as five to one. Some bets have been made here at those odds, but generally speaking the Dempsey backers will not go that high. Some bets have been made at the French, Shanghai and American clubs at 2 to 1, although the "prevailing odds," if they may be spoken of as such, are somewhat higher, ranging around three or four to one.

Fight experts in America with few exceptions look upon Dempsey as a foregone conclusion in this battle; but that doesn't necessarily mean that Dempsey will win. The so called experts didn't give Tommy Gibbons a look-in, and many of them are alibi-ing themselves yet as a result of their extravagant predictions as to what Jack would do to Tommy on that occasion.

Jack's display against Tommy was not all that his friends expected, but against that showing there is the fact that Firpo did not reveal anything to speak of against the aged and ponderous Willard when they met a few weeks ago. After his clean-up of McAuliffe it was predicted that the Wild Bull of the Pampas would tear through the Kansas farmer easily, but he failed to land on the former champion as expected, his victory being due more to Willard's lack of endurance than to his own punching ability.

CHANCE FOR FIRPO

Still, there are those who think Firpo has a first class chance to knock Dempsey cold. Bob Edgren, the New York boxing writer, thinks Luis has better than a fair chance to win. Bob's comment on the forthcoming fight is interesting. He says in part:

It may fit the cynical pose to say that Firpo showed himself an amateur still against Willard, and that Dempsey will pick him to pieces in a couple of rounds. But I never cared much for the cynical pose. A writer needs to look at all facts without prejudice.

So I'll say right here that Firpo has a chance with Dempsey or any other man.

I'll say that he didn't fight a poor fight against Willard, and didn't fight like an amateur.

Firpo isn't awkward. He isn't slow. He doesn't lack a Dempsey punch. He doesn't forget how to fight when in the ring.

Firpo today hasn't Dempsey's versatility, by any means

BUT—

He is naturally smooth in action. He has the light, fast legs and the powerful upper body of a man built for fighting. Physically he is as well equipped for fighting as Dempsey, and he's much taller and bigger.

He isn't equal to Dempsey at infighting, but at long range and at moderately close range he has a tremendous kick in that right hand. I don't know that Dempsey hits any harder. Dempsey hits better because he knows how to make openings and take advantage of them. But not harder.

And Firpo, by fighting exactly to Jimmy DeForrest's instructions in the Willard battle, using his much advertised left hand entirely to block Willard's right, when Willard had practiced counters with which to knock Firpo out when he led the left, proved that his head is clear, no matter how hard the fighting.

In close Dempsey will have a great advantage over Firpo. The only infighting Firpo showed in the Willard fight was when he closed with Willard in the fourth round and hit him nine right hand hooks on the side of the head before Willard, dazed, could break away.

There was a flash of it at the finish in the eight, when Firpo

BOXING SHOW SATURDAY NIGHT TO HELP RELIEF

Good Card Arranged, With Toledo And Favacho As Headliners

A boxing show for the benefit of the earthquake sufferers is to be given at the Town Hall Saturday night, under the auspices of the Shanghai Athletic Association. The affair, which is being promoted by Billy Bellew, is to be under the general management of a committee composed of the following: Cap't. E. I. M. Barrett, Dr. Clark, Lt. Com'd'r Harvey, Harry Ollerdessen, R. W. Davis, H. Webb, W. G. R. Murphy and Dr. O'Hara.

The boxing card will consist of five bouts, the wind-up being between Young Toledo and Bobby Favacho, who will scale at 140 pounds. These boys are evenly matched and ought to put up a first class scrap.

The other bouts will be between Kid Manila and Kid Willie, at 93 pounds; Benny Hertzberg and Joe Chin, at 98 pounds, Thompson and Fernandez at 105 pounds, and one other not yet arranged.

The Willie-Kid Manila bout is expected to be a specially good one and Willie's backers are already looking for takers of the money they are offering on him to cop.

In addition to the boxing bouts there will be a sword swinging exhibition by Mr. Shirvington; a jiu jitsu exhibition by two Japanese experts; rope skipping by and Faustina and Garcia, and other entertainment features yet to be arranged.

Billie Bellew says this is going to be a bang-up, Number One show and advises all who like to see boxers in action to be there. Admission prices will be $5, $3 and $1.

Donations Acknowledged By Relief Organisations

Funds are still coming in in considerable amounts to the various organisations collecting on behalf of the earthquake victims. The totals as reported up to yesterday amount in the neighborhood of Tls. 25,000, Mex $40,000 and Yen 12,000. This does not include many donations of foodstuffs, medical supplies, etc., not money spent here for the Red Cross American headquarters—the latter expenditure amounting to about $1,200,000.

Announcement was made yesterday that the National Christian Council of China has opened a fund for sending relief to the sufferers in Japan. Letters and telegrams have been sent to the Christian churches in all parts of China calling for collections in aid of the fund. The first response has been $500 sent from the Chinese churches in Peking. A cablegram of sympathy in the name of the Christians in China has been sent to Dr. Motoda, President of the Federation of Christian Churches in Japan, informing him of this action.

Since this action was decided upon evidences have been received by the Council that leaders in various parts of the country had been wishing to see such a movement started.

Following are lists of donations received by various of the relief organisations here:

An error crept into the list published in Sunday morning's paper, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. G. Hill being shown as having subscribed Tls. 50. This should have read $50. The total amounts, therefore, acknowledged should have been: Tls. 9,875 and $3,645.50.

YOCHOW LOOTED IN RETREAT OF CHAO'S TROOPS

Shopkeepers Victimised And Likin Station Is Robbed

(Independent News Service)

Yochow, Sept. 6.—Most of Chao Heng-ti's Hunan troops are reported to have gone over to Tan Yen-kai, who now fully controls the situation in Hunan. The principal streets of the city suffered looting when the victorious troops of Tan first came on the scene. Immediately following the evacuation of Changsha by Chao Heng-ti, the railway between Changsha and Yochow was torn up. On their retreat about 500 of Chao's soldiers fell back upon Yochow and destroyed the railway between there and the Nan Ching Bridge.

Looting in Yochow followed and besides holding up shopkeepers and looting their shops, the soldiers robbed the likin station and for a time threatened the Maritime Customs at Yochow Port. It was reported a few days ago that bandits were approaching the city and it was feared for a time that the soldiers would make common cause with them. Hitherto in excitement like this the townspeople crowded into the mission premises for protection, but now the people seem to think that other places are safer, having heard stories of the recent partiality of bandits for foreigners.

Three ladies of the United States Reformed Church Mission in Yochow were persuaded to leave for places of safety. There still remain in Yochow Rev. S. W. Whitener and Rev. J. W. Owen. At Lakeside, about three miles from Yochow city, are Rev. W. E. Hoy, President of the Lakeside College, and Rev. H. C. Ruhl.

Judge Lobingier Returns From Northern Trip

Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier of the United States Court for China and Mrs. Lobingier returned yesterday from Japan, where they went following sessions of the American Court in North China and in Harbin.

Judge Lobingier was in Nara, which was the nearest he got to the quake area and but for the catastrophe would have spent more time in Japan.

The Judge reported that he had had a most successful session of the Court in Harbin. With the exception of one case heard by Judge Thayer several years ago it was the first session of the Court ever to be heard in Harbin.

Judge Lobingier will resume sessions of the Court here immediately.

ONLY ONE MATCH COMPLETED IN MEN'S DOUBLES

Competitors Reminded That Playing Dates Must Be Adhered To

The Honorary Secretary of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association calls attention of the competitors in the different events held under the auspices of the Association to the rules regarding dates on which matches are to be played. It is essential to fix definite dates for the various rounds and equally essential that those dates should be strictly to. The rules say that if the courts on which it has been arranged to play a match are not available on the day on which the match is to be played, that match must be played on the first day on which those courts are available. Competitors who do not adhere to this rule will be scratched.

FIRST ROUND

T. W. R. Wilson and C. Sofoulis w.o. L. R. Wheen and A. F. Wheen.

C. Squires and A. R. Hager w.o. R. F. C. Master and N. Leslie.

R. Morita and M. Kimura won from E. N. Tucker and D. Roberts 6-1, 6-4, 6-8, 6-3.

H. Gulick and W. R. Chapman won from S. Pintos and P. A. da Costa 11-13, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

E. Leitao and A. Leitao won from E. I. M. Barrett and W. Mansel-Smith 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

W. Lock Wei and C. H. Tyau won from J. Ribeiro and A. F. Gomes 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

SECOND ROUND

Only one match completed.

H. Toussaint and R. Canavarro beat W. Lock Wei and C. H. Tyau 6-3, 3-6, 6-1, 6-0.

Dempsey Is Picked To Beat Firpo

But there is much more variety to infighting than that and Dempsey has it all.

Dempsey will be much harder to hit with a right hand than Willard was. In the Carpentier fight after Carpentier had landed one of his right hand punches on Dempsey's chin, Dempsey fought with the chin tucked down close to his shoulder, which gave such good protection that seven following rights of Carpentier's were all glancing blows, with not much jar in them. Firpo fights with his left shoulder up protecting the chin too. He is hard to reach with a right hand, but is often open for a left.

JACK FOXIER

So far as experience, knowledge of boxing and instinctive timing is concerned Dempsey is still far ahead of the big man from the Pampas. Dempsey is not hard to hit with a jab, but when he is attacked it's dangerous to lead at him at all because he is tricky in avoiding blows and slipping into position to deliver tremendous counter hits.

Physically, Firpo is able to take as much punching as Dempsey, and to go through as much roughing without losing his speed and punch.

He is 20 pounds bigger than Dempsey, is taller, has a longer reach. His hands and wrists are as big as Dempsey's. His legs are as good as Dempsey's, perhaps even better. His body may be better because his rise from the hard, rough fare of poverty is more recent.

So far as I could see in his fights Firpo has a cool head and gameness, and he is just as aggressive and determined as Dempsey.

I can picture Firpo against Fulton, Carl Morris, all the men Dempsey has whipped. He'd beat them all down. He didn't get Willard as quickly as Dempsey got him, but Willard wasn't in the same confident, aggressive spirit when he met Dempsey, and he never had time to start fighting before he was on the floor and half licked. Besides which Dempsey isn't in the same fighting frame of mind that sent him after the title at Toledo. Then he was like a hungry, half-starved wolf dragging down a big buck.

Now Firpo is the hungry wolf. Dempsey has been well fed on everything the championship brings for four years. There's a big difference between going after something you want and defending something you already have.

In the first place there's nothing to lose and everything to gain. That is the state of mind that has always ruled the world. It brought the hungry barbarian hordes down from the barren north to overrun Greece and Rome and changed the map of Europe. It sent the Manchus south to destroy China's ancient civilisation. It drove Cortez through Mexico and Pizarro through overwhelming odds in Peru, in search of gold.

Firpo is going to be dangerous and Dempsey will have to be at his best to beat him.

Revolver Fans Have Chance To See Champion

There is a treat in store for the revolver fans who have not as yet seen Inspector Fairbairn, the revolver champion, in action on the screen. The British-American Tobacco Co. (China) Ltd. "Town Topics" number 16 now showing at the Carlton Theater depicts the Inspector in many instructive and remarkable shots. This film is also inclusive of some very good clay pigeon shooting of the recent match between the Shanghai Police Team and the Shanghai Gun Club.

Northerners Settle Down In Chungking; Now Ask $1,000,000

Huge Sum Is Demanded By Leader From Chamber Of Commerce As Cost Of Guaranteeing Peace For Six Months

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Ichang, Sept. 5.—News from Chungking brought down by recent steamers states that General Yang Sen and his troops have been able to settle down in the city once again. It appears that some of them had started to evacuate the city, but the opposing forces did not take action quickly enough; and so the Northerners were able to get in again. General Yang Sen has now promised the Chamber of Commerce that he will guarantee them six months' peace, if they will pay him the sum of $1,000,000.

Meantime the forces who occupy Fowchow have become somewhat truculent. They send an armed partly aboard each steamer as it arrives, and demand the right of search. On occasions they have accepted the captain's word that there was nothing to search for on board, and at other times they have almost insisted at the point of the bayonet that the ship should be searched. It is reported here today that the Shu Hun has been held up there, and the military will not allow her to proceed.

One district adjacent to Ichang has been declared by the officials themselves so infested by brigands that it is not safe for foreigners to travel in it. Recently an official letter was sent by the magistrate of Tangyang to one of the out-stations of the Church of Scotland Mission, saying that he had received orders from his superiors that, on account of the capture of Father Malotto and other outrages, if foreigners came within his district, he should be notified and would provide an escort. One of the women missionaries of that Mission was making arrangements to visit schools within the district of Tangyang, and the Consul was advised of her preparations. In accordance with the request of the magistrate, it was agreed that the lady should travel under escort, and the Bureau of Foreign Affairs here was asked by the Consul to make the necessary arrangements.

The reply was that there were not sufficient soldiers to provide an escort strong enough, and to send a weak escort would be worse than useless, as the brigands might come in force and take away their arms. Foreigners are thus being deprived of the right to travel in the interior of this country, and important work is subject to serious delay, and perhaps may be altogether stopped.

A month or two ago P'ao Ma Kang in the Tangyang district was attacked by brigands and some people were killed. Also at Ho Yung in the same magistracy there have been about 300 of them, and they have been carrying off some of the inhabitants and holding them for ransom.

Raw Silk Trading Halted By Quake

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Nagasaki, Sept. 10.—While the production of raw silk is almost unaffected by the disaster, trading in raw silk in Yokohama has absolutely stopped with no immediate prospect of re-opening.

The Yokohama Silk Exchange building was burned down and also the silk conditioning house and most of the exporters' offices. It is estimated that 50,000 bales of raw silk were destroyed in Yokohama. Absolutely no prices are quoted.

Destroyers Added To Russian Fleet

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Harbin, Sept. 4.—According to a report just received from Vladivostok the Russian Far Eastern Fleet has recently been increased by two newly-repaired destroyers. The re-commissioning of these vessels was made the occasion of an appropriate celebration on the part of the personnel of the Fleet.

When Guests Smoke

Nowadays the host or hostess who entertains friends for dinner must usually think of smokes as well as of food. That is if you have guests who smoke and you have established no rule in your house against smoking. Don't expect them to bring their own smokes. Don't expect one man among your guests to supply your other guests with cigars or cigarettes.

A reader has written in to state her problem. She is a woman past middle age, but married. She is in the habit of giving little dinner parties for intimate friends of hers—men and women. The men smoke. She wishes to know whether she should have cigarettes and cigars to pass after dinner. She seems to feel that it might be a little indelicate for a woman to have smokers' supplies in her possession. There is really no reason why she should feel this way, and there is no good reason why a hostess should not provide cigars and cigarettes as a host.

All people do not like to smoke the same brand of cigarettes or cigars. What then shall a host do about this? Some merely dispense their own particular brand no matter what the taste of their guests may be. It would be possibly more considerate to have a a second choice so as to suit the taste of more of your guests.

If your guests are to smoke at the table you should have individual ash trays before each smoker. Little glass dishes in amber or other color to go with the general color scheme are often used. The considerate guest never carelessly drops cigarette ashes into dishes, flower vases, fireplaces, etc.

CHINESE ASKS ABOLITION OF PROSTITUTION
Delegate To League Meet Pleads For End Of Legalised Traffic

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Sept. 10.—At today's meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations, the Fifth Commission held a discussion on the white slave traffic.

Mr. Chu Chao-hsin, while approving prevention of employment of foreign women as prostitutes in licensed houses, advocated the abolition of legalised prostitution everywhere, declaring that it was unworthy of honest Government to derive revenue from a source which greatly harmed the people and damaged its prestige.

The Chinese delegate advocated women police and the appointment of experts to investigate the problem on the spot. He pointed out that only 14 nations had ratified the 1921 Convention, of which six are members of the British Empire. He urged the others to follow this example.

As regards China, Mr. Chu declared, ratification was only a matter of form. In conclusion, he urged publicity in order to arouse international public opinion against the traffic.

CHANG CHIEN, JR., OUTLINES FIELD OF INVESTIGATION

Envoy To Europe, America And Japan Fetes Local Journalists

The scope in which his commission will investigate the industrial conditions in Europe, America and Japan was outlined in an interesting speech delivered Monday night by the Hon. Chang Chien, jr., Special Envoy, who will sail for Marseillies on the Andre Lebon, scheduled to leave here on the 16th. The occasion was a reception given to local journalists at the Yih Ping Chang Hotel.

A representative gathering of newspapermen attended the dinner. After Mr. Chang's speech, responses were made by Jabin Hsu, representing the Chinese journalists and Mr. R. B. Libby of the Weekly Review of the Far East.

Commissioner Chang said in part:

"During the comparatively brief period of my association with the various industrial organisations of Nantungchow, I have been given the opportunity to observe and to appreciate the difficult problems confronting them. From these I often turn to the larger question of the industrial development of the country as a whole. While I am not without doubt as to the competence of dealing with such a question of great complexity, I believe that it is quite fundamental to correctly diagnose the causes of the unsatisfactory symptoms of the present industrial situation. While it is always the part of the critics to dwell on the seriousness and hopelessness of the symptoms, I join those who are sincerely interested in finding remedies and who would therefore first examine the causes with care.

"For an intelligent study of this important problem it is necessary to recognise certain factors which may be conveniently grouped together as being quasi-political. I would first of all emphasise the fact that we are witnessing the simultaneous progress of an industrial revolution and the inevitable disturbances, or rather readjustments, following the wake of a political one. Their interactions have produced conditions unsatisfactory to both. From the industrial standpoint, relief can only be sought through the consummation of the process of political stabilisation. Until this is done, we shall continue to suffer from the curtailment of the domestic market, the dissipation and destruction of capital, the unavailibility of raw material, the interruption of the development of communications and the general timidity of industrial adventure.

"Second in importance only to the above in acting as a deterrent to industrial development is the absence of tariff autonomy. It is a wonder that in discussing the tariff question we should hear so much about the financial aspect as to how much more revenue could be raised, to the shameful neglect of the economic side of the question. The repressive effect on industries in an infant stage, of a tariff regulated by treaty need not be argued in order to be understood. The reality of this repression cannot be better appreciated than by considering the present state of a certain important industry which is extremely depressed and which a reasonably high import duty could in all probabilities have kept in a very different position. But it is again clear, as in the first case, that it would be futile to find a solution that is immediately available.

"The third important quasi-political handicap is the chaotic state of currency. Aside from the friction and inconvenience incident to the employment of coins of different metals with continually changing relative values, the economic loss resulting from the depreciation of silver with the consequent rise of value of all deferred payments made to gold using countries must be obvious to all. Furthermore, so long as the values of the two metals keep on fluctuating within a wide range, the element of uncertainty remains present in our foreign trade, and to that extent acts as an appreciable deterrent to the development of commerce. But inasmuch as coinage is a public function, and rightly so, those who are concerned with purely industrial problems can find no effective means of coping with that serious problem.

"While these difficult questions concerning political readjustments, tariff autonomy and coinage may rightfully be regarded as being obstacles quite alien to the domain of industry, I do not pretend that all the industrial ailments can be thus attributed to them. I shall point out a few outstanding difficulties which are strictly within the industry itself, and are in other words, strictly economic.

"Above all, the fact that China has long remained an agricultural community supporting a constantly swelling population and thereby leaving very little surplus produce for accumulation, has resulted in the scarcity of capital. This fact is evidenced by the prevalence of an exorbitant rate of interest, which directly represses industrial development by raising the general cost of production. The high interest rates also indirectly curb enterprise by creating a general expectancy of an impossibly high rate of return on investment. In order to satisfy this irrational desire for an excessive return, and to attract additional capital, some adopt the questionable expedient of paying dividends, that ultimately impair the financial condition of the business. I am not here to trace the many ramifications of the paucity of capital insofar as they adversely affect industrial development, but we can hope for no immediate change for the better, unless they are squarely faced and met.

"The next important economic obstacle in the way of industrial development seems to be the imperfection and crudity of the business orrganisation and methods. This fact is too patent and elementary to require any explanation. Perhaps I should call attention to one especially noteworthy aspect of this question, namely, that of accounting and audit. The old method of bookkeeping, while good enough for a simple business, becomes utterly inadequate for a complicated industrial organisation, and to the extent of this inadequacy there exists an opportunity for waste and inefficiency, and an opening for losses of even baser character. In this connection the prevalent method of making payments in cash and in bearer checks increases the ease of committing fraud without leaving possible clues of detection, and to that extent aggravates the evil inherent in bad accounting and audit. For the sake of promoting industry and commerce and of increasing efficiency and eliminating fraud the correction of the defective organisation and methods is fundamental in importance.

"The rapidity and extent of the removal of the foregoing causes for the unsatisfactory industrial situation will determine the extent and direction of the industrial growth in the future. On the eve of sailing for Europe I have no other desire than to endeavor to discover the effective means of promoting the removal of these causes, insofar as the limited time for the trip allows me to do so.

"But in the process of industrialisation, China is also confronting dangers which are almost inseparable from that process, dangers which, if not properly guarded against, may lead to the destruction of economic and social stability. There is, first of all, the danger of growing conflict of capital and labor. And then, the emergence of big industries and industrial towns will bring about a gradual, unhealthy exodus of the rural population and the consequent deterioration of agriculture. Furthermore, as the industrial organisation grows more and more complex and delicate, and as the market for the product becomes more and more extended, the chances of an abrupt breakdown are rendered increasingly numerous, such as the familiar business crises of regular recurrence, with all their accompanying hardships to the profit-seeking as well as to the wage-earning classes.

"It is, therefore, to be hoped that in attempting to hasten industrialisation we shall always be on our guard against the pitfalls, such as the ones just mentioned. All the industrially advanced countries have suffered from them, to different degrees, and it would be a pleasant surprise indeed, if our country turns out to be an exception. How to promote industrial development and yet to avoid its incidental evils, or at least how to mitigate them, will afford a problem that merits very serious thought and study of all."

Mr. Chang was the guest of honor at a dinner given by five local organisations on Sunday night at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. The hosts were the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, the World Chinese Students' Federation, the Good Roads Movement, the Y.M.C.A. and the China Gymnastic Society. Representatives of the organisations gave speeches of welcome. Mr. Hsu Yuan, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, presided.

In response, Mr. Chang felt the responsibility placed on him as Special Envoy for the Investigation of Industrial Conditions in foreign countries. He would like to function, he said, like a talking machine, trying to record every good message from the foreign industrial world on his trip so that when he returns, he would be able to hand over to the people the key which will open up the untold resources of the nations.

WEATHER

The New President's Background On Foreign Relations

THE sympathetic attitude of the mind of the new American President, Mr. Calvin Coolidge, a matters affecting the international welfare was never more clearly shown than in his remarkable order issued to the American Asiatic Fleet immediately after the earthquake in Japan. This message transmitted by the Secretary of the Navy to Admiral Anderson instructed the latter to place his entire fleet at the disposal of the Japanese Navy Department and to expend whatever money for the purchase of relief supplies deemed necessary. Local naval officers say that never before, within their recollection, have such sweeping orders been issued to the American Navy.

It is not to be wondered at therefore that the irreconcilable Republicans are reported from Washington to be disturbed lest President Coolidge take an attitude not only as favorable as that of the late President Harding to the world court, but favorable to an eventual entry into the League of Nations. A text for this report has been found in the early calls made upon the President by Senator Brandegee of Connecticut and Chairman Adams of the Republican national committee. They have been two of the most intemperate opponents of the League and were recognised as probably serious obstructions to the achievement of President Harding's plan with regard to the world court. It is represented that Senator Brandegee and Chairman Adams were much concerned and that their concern has been increased by their baffling inability to obtain any clew from the new President, who has announced his purpose not to express himself for the present.

The state of mind of Senator Brandegee and Chairman Adams and of those who stand with them, may have been exaggerated. Only a rash prophet would endeavor to foretell the course which President Coolidge will adopt. The situation is difficult and complicated. Much water has run over the dam since he spoke in the campaign of 1920. But the more the situation is assessed, the more there appears to be reason for uneasiness on the part of the extreme isolationists.

In this connection it is to be remembered the Mr. Coolidge was elected Governor of Massachusetts on a platform which called for the adoption of the treaty and for entry into the League "without amendment."

In a world of changing circumstances it cannot safely be assumed that President Coolidge and Mr. William M. Butler, one of his closest advisers, stand exactly where they did in the campaign of 1919. But it is worth recalling that President Coolidge was the Massachusetts governor who was overwhelmingly elected in that campaign and upon that platform. Senator Crane not only dictated that plank in the platform but was recognised as the organising and directing genius of the campaign which, with the Boston police strike, first made Calvin Coolidge a nationally conspicuous figure.

A 20th Amendment Now On The Way

"Where is the man who has the power and skill
To stem the torrent of a woman's will?
For if she will, she will, you may depend on't;
And if she won't, she won't; so there's an end on't."

Mere man may have agreed with this centenary inscription when the Nineteenth Amendment to the Constitution, giving nation-wide suffrage to women, was adopted in 1919, after a seventy-year fight for the privilege of voting. But now that a Twentieth Amendment is proposed, giving "men and women equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction," we find criticism dripping from the pens not only of male newspaper correspondents and editorial writers, but women writers and political leaders as well. In fact, W. W. Jermane, an experienced political observer at the Capital, doubts whether the National Woman's party can "put over" the new amendment, opposed, as they are, by numerous other women's organisations who scent danger in the proposal that absolute equality be established by law between the two sexes. It is a question in the minds of these organisations, he writes in the Seattle Times, whether the destruction of existing statutes specially framed for the protection of women would not more than offset any good that might come from the adoption of a sweeping amendment such as that proposed by the Woman's party.

The Woman's Suffrage party, it seems, accomplished in the Nineteenth Amendment but one of its aims—the elective franchise. Only political equality was won. The fight launched at Seneca Falls, New York, late in July by the Woman's party, however, calls for "complete emancipation of women, and absolute freedom from all discrimination—legal, economical, professional and educational," according to the announcement of the secretary, "he specific demands which the National Woman's party now makes for women are:

"Control of their children; control of their property, their earnings; right to make contracts; citizenship rights; inheritance rights; equality in all State and local governments; equal opportunities in schools, universities, government service, professions and industries; equal pay for equal work; authority in the church; rights after their marriage to their own identity; a single moral standard."

And they have just begun to fight for these rights, it seems, for the plan is to reach each United States Senator and Representative in Congress at his home before the end of summer in an attempt to enlist his support. According to Miss Alice Paul, Vice-President of the National Woman's party:

"The party will bring the proposed amendment to the special attention of the President and of the leaders of all political parties on the reconvening of Congress. We plan to have this amendment introduced as promptly as possible and to have hearings before the committee to which it is referred in each House.

"In the past two years 33,000,000 women have been benefited by the passage of equal rights legislation in fourteen States. In Delaware, Georgia, Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Mississippi, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, the rights of women as guardians of minor children have been enlarged. In Delaware, Georgia, New York, and Virginia the right to inherit property has been equalised. In Delaware, Louisiana, Maryland, and Oklahoma women have been made eligible to public office. In Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Virginia married women have been empowered to choose their own residences for voting purposes. In Maine they have been admitted to jury service. Various other minor reforms have been effected. But in only one State—Wisconsin—has our general equal rights bill met with success.

"The only way in which complete equality can be gained for all women within a reasonable time is by Federal amendment, just as the right to vote was gained for women throughout the country that way."

The San Diego Union wishes the women "the best of luck" in their campaign, but suggests that they "overhaul the program devised some 75 years ago," and printed along with this article, "before taking it to the people," and the Indianapolis Star can discover no "urgent desire among women in general to serve on juries, nor is any feverish demands for further rights in evidence." The campaign of the Woman's party "does not have at this time the support of the majority of the American people, nor of a majority of the female half of them," declares Mr. Jermane, in the Seattle paper.

Having invalidated protecting laws for women in seven States by its minimum wage decision the Supreme Court would be called upon to rule upon the proposed amendment, and the Springfield Republican wonders how it would rule. In the Providence Journal's opinion, "the proposed amendment seems to aim at the repeal of those various statutes that throw a special safeguard around women." "Labor laws that give women special protection in the matter of hours would be abrogated, it is claimed, under an equal rights amendment," points out the Jersey City Journal, and in this the Louisville Courier-Journal and Brooklyn Eagle agree. As Ethel M. Smith writes in the New York Evening Post.

"For the National Woman's party, the great and glorious principle of 'Equality' is written so high in the heavens that they can not see even the women they may trample under foot."

The Pittsburgh Post likewise scents danger in the proposal of the National Woman's party. Says this paper:

"The women who are agitating for equal rights probably have in mind to acquire privileges of which they are now deprived by reason of their sex. It is to be borne in mind, however, that if they are discriminated against in some laws, they are favored in others, and that if there should be a leveling process they might lose more than they would gain."

Man's Inhumanity To Woman

Part of the "Declaration of Sentiments" adopted at the first American equal rights meeting, which was held at Seneca Falls, New York, in 1848, and was lately commemorated by suffrage leaders in the same village:

"The history of mankind is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations on the part of man toward woman, having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over her.

"He has never permitted her to exercise her inalienable right to the elective franchise.

"He has made her, if married, in the eye of the law, civilly dead.

"He has taken from her all right in property, even to the wages she earns.

"He has made her morally an irresponsible being, as she can commit many crimes with impunity, provided they be done in the presence of her husband.

"In the convenant of marriage she is compelled to promise obedience to her husband, he becoming to all intents and purposes her master, the law giving him power to deprive her of her liberty and to administer chastisement.

"He has monopolised nearly all the profitable employments and from those she is permitted to follow she receives but a scanty remuneration. He closes against her all the avenues to wealth and distinction which he considers most honorable to himself.

"He has created a false public sentiment by giving the world a different code for men and women, by which moral delinquencies, which exclude woman from society, are not only tolerated but deemed of little account in man.

"He has usurped the prerogative of Jehovah Himself, claiming it as his right to assign for her a sphere of action, when that belongs to her conscience and to her God.

"He has endeavored in every way that he could to destroy her confidence in her own respect and to make her willing to lead a dependent and abject life."

JAPAN AND THE REFUGEES

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Dear Sir: It has come to the knowledge of this Consulate that rumors are being circulated regarding the refusal of the Japanese to render assistance to foreign refugees during the terrible catastrophe which has befallen my country. Might I ask in fairness to the thousands of sufferers of all nationalities that you might grant an opportunity for my Government to investigate any such complaint before publication. It is not my desire that Japan should seek to avoid any just criticism, but you will, I am sure, readily realise the seriousness of the spreading of such reports at this time, especially if they are found afterwards to be untrue. I shall be pleased to receive and give immediate attention to any matter affecting foreign refugees and their treatment or alleged lack of protection during the period following the earthquake disaster. I am, Dear Sir, Yours faithfully,

S. YADA.
Consul-General for Japan.
September 11, 1923.

[Note: We refer Mr. Yada to the fact that THE CHINA PRESS yesterday advocated the same consideration for Japan which he now bespeaks.]

In order to avoid misunderstandings that may happen regarding this question, we have taken the liberty to inform as above. We are, Dear Sir, Faithfully yours.

Diary Tells Sufferings Of Miyanoshita Colony

A strikingly graphic description of the destruction at and nearly Miyanoshita, famous Japanese resort, and of the terrible journey of the foreign visitors thereabouts to the railway and eventual safety, is contained in the following diary, kept by Mrs. E. G. Whittaker, well-known to many Shanghai residents, who with her husband, went through the ordeal.

Ten minutes and no violent shocks. What a relief!

Twenty minutes later—relaxation. The group who were caught up above and in bathing have just come down. We're all here in front of the hotel. Just saw an old lady come out of the debris—blank expression on her face and an alarm clock in her hand! Our minds are stunned by the fright. Saw another of the oldest guests coming out of the hotel ruins with her crucifix.

Rowena Lasky was caught in the debris but finally pulled out after greatest difficulties. Miss Hoffman caught in the swimming tank as it rent apart, sucked down under the mountain—rescued by two men. Others jumping from windows, crawling through plaster and broken timbers.

Another jar! And hearts are jumping worse than ever. And now all we're doing is waiting for the next roar, the final roar, when we will all be swallowed up.

5 o'clock—a terrifying crash—a landslide.

Ten minutes' intermission. Wish I could register some of the unnatural ghastly expressions of the faces I see about me. Some folks are thinking of eating! An apple, a cup of water, a potato sandwich.

6:30—rumblings and jars. Not so great, but continuing at close intervals. Have just wended our way over to what was once a charming Japanese cottage on the mountain side—hurriedly gathered a few necessary articles—our faithful servants bringing bedding for the night.

People are daring to move about. But as soon as a rumble comes all rush back to the open place. Beds are being made on the ground for the kiddies—poor bewildered children, stunned with fright, for they cannot understand.

Night's shadows are falling fast, so is the dew, and with the darkness comes that weird, uncertain feeling of what tomorrow will bring. A madhouse of the worst class could not be more terrible than this. If relief does not come we shall go mad! These severe shocks cannot be withstood for long.

A little kiddy's crib which one of the Japanese boys salvaged will be the little Marger baby's resting place tonight. God knows how many more.

There is the first bright star—a cheerful spot in the patch of the sky that was blue! The peace and the serenity up there reminds me of the faith I have in God. Is my faith strong enough?

Hum of low voices and another rumble. A lantern bickering. Dark mountains looming up. The Japanese maids and boys are clinging close to the foreigners. They fear the outside vandals rushing in, for, crazed and mad, they would do anything! The silhouette of a pine to the right, the bright reflection of a fire toward Odowara way, smoke pouring in.

Two men—Mr. Moore and Capt. Eisler—ran in from Hakone, where families were killed and tales are too awful for words. (Note: this may refer to Mr. Rodger L. Moore, formerly of Shanghai, reported dead.)

Noon—Others seen at top of opposite mountain, walking on to Odawara. Too tired to write. Too tired even to sit or move.

1:10 p.m.—Just heard the whirring of an airplane, but all we could see was the smoke. Had lunch—a portion of potatoes, bread and tea. It's very hot and sticky.

Mr. Kerr lost his life down near the curio shop and many Japanese are gone. We dare try to get out of this trap but we are warned not to start. The roads are terrible. Food has been sent for—but the situation has now a different feeling. Babies crying everywhere. The strain of being trapped is wearing on us all.

6 p.m.—Just realised it was Sunday. Wireless messages have come through from Shimidzu—

"Yokohama city entirely destroyed. Looks like a sea of flames. No news of Tokio. Tunnels and trains collapsed."

This news has brought added fear and sorrow to us all.

Hundreds of shocks today, some severe, but all making us nearly frantic with terror and fear of a repetition of yesterday. When I gaze about at the number of children and old people here. I wonder that there were not more casualties.

Some started out this morning but had to turn back, and soon another night will fall upon us.

Night! Indescribable hours of terror—hours that never seem to pass.

Terrible shocks! All of us in the open. Misting, heavy dew, dampness, cold. Doesn't dawn ever come after night?

7 a.m.—A bright sun; everyone up and some making preparations for leaving for Numadzu. Food giving out—water nearly gone. Two meals today—a rice ball for lunch and a rice ball for dinner—and oh, how thankful for only a little food.

Reports have come in from Shidzuoka—Yokohama entirely gone—Tokio business district destroyed by fire—everywhere devastation.

What scenes—haggard drawn faces—chaos all around. We're ready to make a start along the back trail or the old Tokaido Highway, daring all the perils, for what can be worse than this?

9:10 a.m., Monday, Sept. 3.—And now we're on our way. We number about 24, children and adults. Terrible roads. We're resting here beyond Kawakadani. Hard climbs requiring superhuman effort.

Passed the Prince on his way. He gave me a smile. I'm travelling in George Reid's clothes and trousers are most convenient. Up again with water and food packets on our backs and canes to help us along. On the way to Numadzu—with high hopes—but hard climbs ahead. Ashinoyo sunk 6 feet, fumes surrounding us, huge rents in the earth.

11:45 a.m.—Over washed out roads, around huge boulders balancing on edge, wet to the skin, dead tired. But when there are five babies under five years of age and not much whimpering why should we complain. Sopping, squashy, wet as dirty mop rags with the same washed out feeling.

Sweet little Betty Reigle from Tokio, who has just smiled at me when I asked her how old she was—and only a babe of four!—has walked every bit of the way, her sweet smiles an encouragement to us weary ones trudging behind her.

Reached Hakone, and a more desolate scene could not be pictured. What was two days ago a charming resort spot in this region is nothing but a ruined hole in the mountains.

Just had our lunch of sembi and water. Mrs. Palmer, of Kobe, with her spaniel "Paddy," is sitting on a soap box, wearing a most dejected look. One can realise that, for her husband was expecting to be with her at Miyanoshita and his fate is not known.

Learned that we have travelled 12 miles. How it was done will any of us be able to remember? Except that this whole experience has been most horrible, terrifying—a thing that can't be expressed. But, thank God, we are on our way somewhere that will lead out of this mountain death trap—for the first big rain will do away with what remains of what was once a pride in Japan—their mountain roads.

Again we start, for we want to get as much distance between this horrible place and ourselves. Up and up, over rocky roads, with torrents of muddy water rushing down. Stumbling up, oh, what steep heights—through mud—red, soft, sticky mud. We slip and stumble, fall and get up, Capt. James efficiently conducting and advising, especially at times like that when Mrs. Awberg, of Kobe, gave in—her husband having carried her most of the way. Most of us are already ill from the shock and strain—oh, how long the miles are today. It must be we have gone nearly 20 miles over perilous roads. A minute's stop at a tea house—a few sembi eaten along the way—rain pouring. Through to the skin—everyone sharing whisky to get stimulated. Mishima seems leagues away.

Once Overs

BY J. J. MUNDY

Your employers do not trust you as you wish they would.

You wonder why you do not inspire confidence.

Are you confident of yourself?

If you were advanced to the job ahead, would you be capable of filling it without a certain period of extra preparation?

Would you accept another position higher in line personally assured that you could fill it?

The chances are against you, and yet you wonder why others are not impressed with your ability.

Have more faith in yourself, based upon solid facts.

You probably have not demonstrated to your boss that you are built for bigger things and higher duties.

It is the way you discharge your present responsibilities that convinces your boss for or against you in a higher place.

Sell yourself to yourself before you sell to others.

When you are fitted for something better than you have and have convinced yourself, you will probably get it.

Describes Experiences Of Yokohama Survivors

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS
(Yokohama Correspondent for the Japan Advertiser)
(Specially Written for The China Press)

(Mr. Harris arrived at Shanghai on the Empress of Canada from Yokohama.)

The escape of the foreigners from Yokohama to the ships in the harbor and then on to Kobe by various boats was one of the most miraculous that as yet has come to the notice of those who are doing rescue work. The city of Yokohama was reduced to a pile of trashwood within one minute after the first quake came on Saturday at 11.58 o'clock. Within ten minutes after this quake the city had been fired in a dozen places and those who were within the piles of wreckage were in danger of being burned alive. All of the telephone wires were down and added to the difficulty of getting out, but after a few minutes of idle dashing about the foreigners began to stream out of the wreckage toward the bund or the city park which is well toward the center of the foreign quarter of the city. Soon after the quake had taken place the foreign settlement was in flames and no one further could get to the bund and then everyone began to stream for the park.

During the entire time the earth was rocking continuously with additional quakes but in spite of them everyone continued their struggle to get to the confines of the park. The water mains, what few there are, had bursted and the streets in the vicinity of the park were flooded. People struggled through in water up to their hips and in some places up to their shoulders. Upon their arrival at the park the flames were surrounding the entire district and the park became jammed with foreigners and Japanese who sought to escape being burned alive. Within a short time the flames became so hot that persons dived into the mud to keep from being roasted. This continued for hours in addition to the dense smoke clouds which enveloped the entire vicinity.

MAKE FOR BUND

Along late in the evening the flames and smoke began to subside and those who were left began to attempt to make their way out. Most of them stuggled to the canal near by and began their long and tedious journey to the bund, a walk of approximately a mile and a half and made much longer due to the state of the debris and the sufferings of the persons attempting to make it. This part of the escape, the walk from the park to the bund, was one of its most terrible phases. People were lying about in the streets gasping for air and water. Burning embers lay all along throwing off intense heat which added to the sufferings of those near by. The street car tracks were badly buckled out of the earth and here and there were the trucks of the street cars which had been burned where they stopped during the quake. At intervals many bodies were seen lying in the ruins, either burned to the bones or roasted black with the flesh still remaining.

After making our way to the bund and the reclaimed ground where hundreds of others had become collected by this time, we began the wait for small boats to take us to whatever boat could receive us. After long waiting during which time there were numerous quakes which added to the horror of the spectacle, the Empress of Australia's life boats came along and we were taken in.

We had been fortunate all day in keeping life within our bodies and now still greater luck seemed to have befallen us as we were told that food and shelter awaited us on the steamer which lay alongside the pier.

AUSTRALIA'S ESCAPE

We were taken on, treated and given food and a place to sleep. The relief of such things after the day we had through with was overwhelming and most of us lay in a stupor throughout the night, and the following day. By this time things were happening on the outside and the danger to the liner from burning oil was becoming great. Huge pools of fuel floated about the Australia and the ship had her fire lines working feverishly to keep the stuff from encircling her. The pier was burning afresh and the ship was seen to be in imminent danger. Due to her propellors being fouled she was unable to move and could only drift back slowly after another boat to her rear had been moved out of the area.

At this stage of the escape the greatest climax of all seemed to take place. The oil advanced toward the ship rapidly and it seemed to the 587 foreign refugees on board that they would surely be burned. Suddenly the big ship began to move out to the side and slowly turn away from the pier and it was through this move that she and all on board were saved from being burned in the roaring furnace creeping down on her.

The seamanship displayed by Captain Robinson of the Australia was extraordinary and it was due only to his quick judgment and his ability to get his ship engines working to a slight degree that all were saved. After a period of skilful manoeuvreing in the inner harbor, which was clogged with craft, the big liner was gotten into position to slip through the harbor gate and to safety. At numerous times during her getaway from the pier she was known to be in the greatest danger.

DANGERS MANY

They would arise and all on board would stand almost in a daze and watch the captain and his men fight to get away and after success had been achieved a sigh of relief would pass about until a new danger would arise.

During Sunday night after the ship had gotten outside of the harbor she was believed to be in safety but to make doubly sure Captain Robinson secured the aid of a small Dutch oil steamer and the nose of the Australia was headed down the bay in proper position, and the ship then anchored where she remained until being put in condition to go to sea. During the escape of the Australia from the harbor the men on the ship were working tirelessly to make the hundreds of refugees comfortable and to feed them. The first class dining room was continually in use and the boys worked day and night. Great amounts of food were prepared and plates passed out from the kitchen. In spite of the terrible task to prepare food for such a crowd it was done with precision and in haste.

On Monday morning the Empress of Canada arrived and the work of transfering persons to it from the Australia began. It was done in a short while and early Tuesday morning the Canada was under way to Kobe. During Monday the Admiral Line steamer President Jefferson was also in Yokohama and took on many refugees for Kobe. She sailed from there (Kobe) Tuesday for Seattle direct with many persons who desired to get away to the United States.

In looking back on the escape of the foreigners from Yokohama, the ships, Empress of Canada and Empress of Australia, were the salvation of those persons. The men gave all they had and with such treatment and the large liners to go to, the lives of the greater part of the foreign community were saved. Had not those boats been close by practically all of the foreign community of Yokohama would today be dead in the ruins of Yokohama.

Every Morning at Breakfast take a draught of SANATOGEN
This will give you that extra nerve-energy which makes you feel "fit" and fresh all day and it will save you from Heat prostration

SANATOGEN in the morning means a better day's work—means that you feel brighter, fresher, and keener all day, in spite of the exhausting heat, while your powers of resistance to typhoid, cholera, dysentery and nervous disorders will be enormously increased.

TRY IT!

SANATOGEN'S power to increase nerve-energy has been definitely proved, in the words of Sir Charles A. Cameron. C.B., M.D., etc. President of the Royal Institute of Public Health:—

Sanatogen is an excellent nerve-food of the highest nutritive value, easily and completely digested.

GET A BOTTLE TO-DAY
ALL CHEMISTS SELL SANATOGEN

Never forget that Sanatogen is a food, not a medicine or a "secret remedy." It increases nerve-energy by feeding the nerves—not by goading them with drugs or stimulants. Its action is as natural as that of any ordinary food: it must do good, and it cannot do harm. That is why doctors give it even to babies. And that is why so many Europeans in the East take Sanatogen regularly, all the year round—not as an occasional "tonic," but as a part of their daily diet. You should do likewise, if you want to keep your nerve-energy at the highest pitch, and to avoid the debilitating effects of the great heat
